

Dear Friend,

I am writing because I believe you are in a position to be able to make a difference in contributing to saving our planet.

Please work towards taking the hardest line to reduce emissions. I am a mother and a teacher. My students, my children - they are all so worried about the future and some of them feel that those in power will not act in time for us to save our futures... Our Earth is so precious - we only have one of her right now.

I beg you from one human being to another - please please help us to change this dark age into a world of hope and green. None of us want for our beautiful and diverse planet to be stripped of her life - stripped of the many diverse species she homes - including homosapiens... Please help rescue our planet... for us all... for the children who are our future.

My love to you and your family,

Lesley Mannering
