SUBMISSION TO THE GARNAUT CLIMATE CHANGE REVIEW

I am really concerned about climate change and the impacts it will have on our quality of life.

Climate change is dramatically affecting temperatures and weather patterns in Australia and all over the world. It's clear that we must act as soon as possible.

I want to draw your attention to the crucial role our native vegetation plays in mitigating climate change, in particular the important role our native forests play as huge carbon stores and how this has been underestimated in the past.

I urge you to consider the cost effectiveness of protecting our native forests and bushland, and the positive impacts this will have for our climate, water, wildlife and our future.

I look forward to your response on this matter.

Signed
